Opened or closed, a window is a transparent barrier that places the viewer apart from what is viewed. What’s seen is filtered by the viewer’s mindset into perceived reality. Every artist has his/her own particular way of seeing real or metaphoric. The artist’s own image may be reflected back to him too, somehow detached from its environment, inviting a more spiritual and less physical translation.

The artist’s interpretation of the image may be influenced by current circumstances, beautiful memories, or simply a vision of feeling made visible.

What do you see Out Your Window?
